

Structured workplace learning is on-the-job training during which a student is expected to master a set of skills or competencies

Inform the student that their health and safety is your most important concern during their stay. Explain your legal duty of care for them, and that in turn they must observe any requirements you have established

